Defining the Word-of-Mouth Marketing Question

There's only one survey question for "Recommend."

"Would you recommend this hospital to your family and friends?"

Patients use a four-point scale in responding to this question:

1. Definitely No
2. Probably No
3. Probably Yes
4. Definitely Yes

Let's Define "Recommend:"

- a patient's retrospective view of his total experience, and its perceived value
- like the "Overall" score, a subjective comparison to their expectations
- judged a positive or negative - no "undecideds"
- a choice in which they deduct the "service failures" from the good "moments of truth"
- a strong predictor of patient's likelihood to return

The Keys to Earn "Definitely Yes"

- Continually assess your service, drawing upon the range of "listening posts" we've suggested to you
- Proactively manage patient's expectations; anticipate needs
- Employ all means possible to quickly make the best of every situation
- Be non-judgmental; avoid misconceptions about people - rely only on evidence-based information
- Apply the healing power of touch, intentional presence, and empathetic non-verbal communication
- Be assertive in preparing the patient and family for continued recovery at home

You are likely to be "Recommended" when you meet these care expectations:

Staff response to:

- patient concerns and complaints
- the inconvenience of being hospitalized (fear of the future, will I be okay, life after discharge)
- my pain – and how well it was managed

Domain Staff Owners

Everyone!

Current National Threshold is:

(Rated a 4 – "Always")

What's yours? _____%

The Drive-By Factor

- How much (lost) business drives past you each year, on the way to your competitors?
- How much would you like to win back?

Due to positive word of mouth, admit 1, 2, or 3 more inpatients a day (for a 3-day stay) for 1 year at an average of $1,860 per day: (Example)

- 1 admission per day = $2,036,700
- 2 admission per day = $4,073,400
- 3 admission per day = $6,110,100

DO IT Recommendation

1. Calculate your “drive-by factor,” and set a goal to win back a specific percentage of market share each year, through word of mouth
2. Calculate the value an impact of 1 – 3 more admissions a day

Why Willingness to Recommend Matters

“Will you Recommend?” is:

- the first place people look on CMS survey
- the most powerful referral you can get
- a summary judgment of how good you are as a hospital

Remember: your “Recommend” ratings are public.

Patients who said they would “Definitely Recommend”

Question:

Why does your “Recommend” score matter to you?

The Power of Referrals: How Patients Choose Hospitals

Question:

“Are your patients and their families telling their story of their stay... the way you hope they will?”

Which of these purchases/decisions do you like to have referrals for?

- A movie
- Smartphone app
- Lawyer
- Home repairs
 - plumber
 - electrician
- New restaurant
- Car dealership/ salesman
- College
- TV series
- Financial planner
- Realtor (and best local schools near a new home)
- Painless, affordable dentist

For which of these things do you like to read reviews, comments, and ratings?

- Books - on Amazon
- Smartphone apps
- Trip Advisor advice
- Hotels
- Restaurants

Please note that these are all forms of referrals!

Why do you like to be asked for a referral?

- You were satisfied with the service and care provided
- You feel flattered
- Like giving opinions
- You're seen as expert
- A trusted critical eye
- Thought to be smart
- Feel increased status
- And in-the-know
- You liked the people
- A way to 'pay it forward'
- You want your friends to benefit

Conversation-Starters to Ask For a Referral

- “Whom do you know who would appreciate receiving the same quality of care and concern from us that you did?”
- “Would you do us a favor and tell them them when you get home?”
- “I'm so pleased to hear you say we kept you comfortable. We'd be grateful if you'd share your experience with family and friends...”

Question:

- When patients recount their hospital experience to family and friends, are they not giving you a referral (positive or negative)?
- How do you ensure patients receive the kindest, most personal care?

The Answer: Draw a distinction.

Teach your staff the skills to shift gears between “Service Delivery” and “Service Excellence”

- Service Delivery: medical, clinical, scientific.
- Service Excellence: compassion, kindness, caring
- They’re two separate functions (left brain vs. right brain) and they require practice to shift back and forth smoothly

These ideas from Wm. R. Johnson’s Service Delivery vs. Service Excellence Lulu Publishing Services, January 2014

Don’t be held hostage to a “happiness number!”

- Use our recommendations to train your staff with the skills they need to be effective, compassionate care-givers
- Rather than worry about patient happiness, focus on patient comfort, patient participation, patient education, and patient healing

Team DO IT Recommendations:

Engage your staff in the following discussion:

- “What products and services do you like to obtain referrals for?”
- “Why do you like to give referrals?”
- “When and how would you ask patients for a referral?”

Question:

What’s your top personal reason for choosing a hospital?

Unleash the Priceless Value of Lifetime Customer Loyalty

The Three Attributes of Lifetime Patient Loyalty

Service Defined...

- “Adding people to what you do...”
- “Treating patients as you would like your friends treated...”
- “An attitude of gratitude...”
- for both internal and external customers

Everyone is a Caregiver

“There are those who serve the patient, and there are those who serve those who serve the patient.”

– Anonymous

Questions

What do we expect as customers?

- _____
- _____
- _____

Can you name three places that consistently meet your expectations?

- _____
- _____
- _____

The Point

In a world of mediocrity, just consistently meet or manage your patients’ expectations and you’ll be a star.

Question:

What would it mean to your organization if everyone understood – and delivered this?

We expect:

• Personal Attention	• Loyalty
• Respect	• Name Recognition
• Good Service	• Product Knowledge
• Courtesy	• Value
• Answers	• Convenience
• Problems-Solved	• Excellence
• A Smile	• Cleanliness
• Fairness	• Timeliness
• Honesty	• Consistency
• Friendly Service

If everyone focused on meeting patients’ expectations, we would have:

- Higher patient satisfaction
- Greater job satisfaction
- Lower staff turnover
- Better word of mouth
- Higher census
- Greater revenue
- Job security
- Raises!
- Be known as a Provider of Choice!

Question

Would patients rate you always, return again and again, and recommend you to others if they could depend on their expectations of care being met?

Answer: You bet!

What You Expect Makes a Difference

When our expectation are met:

“There’s a pleasant release of dopamine, and a general feeling of well-being”

When our expectation are NOT met:

“Our brain doesn’t just get slightly unhappy, it sends out a message of danger or threat”

– David Rock, Your Brain at Work, Harper Collins, 2009

The Point

- The challenge is to consistently meet patient and family expectations
- By definition, you will exceed their expectations
- And they’ll be willing to recommend
- And that will only happen with and through engaged, empowered frontline staff!

Team DO IT Recommendation

Train everyone on this core competency via a 20 min. in-service to skillfully manage patient expectations about:

- Use “sounds of care” vs. “unnecessary noise”
- Response to call lights: “urgent” vs. “non”
- “Pain control” vs. “pain-free”
- Well-orchestrated transition of care vs. a last-minute rush

The Three Imperatives of a Culture Patients Will Recommend #1. Engage

Engage your team by persistent listening – and taking action on what you hear.

DO IT Recommendations

- Step 1:* Measure employee engagement once a year – and act on what you hear
- Step 2:* Take “The Mother Test”
- Step 3:* Consider the “Mystery Patient” option
- Step 4:* “Patient Reality Checks” done weekly

Ask Your Frontline Staff These Very Revealing Questions

- How many of you know the results of the latest employee satisfaction survey?
- How many of you feel your managers/supervisors made an honest effort to improve staff morale as a result of the survey?

Team DO IT Recommendation

1. Employ an external vendor to conduct an annual, scientifically validated employee satisfaction and engagement survey.
2. Be sure staff is asked: “Would you recommend our hospital to your family and friends?”
3. Respond to what you hear. This requires a long, hard look at how your employees are treated.
4. Make the necessary adjustments – or face a workforce lacking trust in its leadership.

A Model for Ensuring Staff Alignment

Quarterly 1:1 meetings with direct reports promote two-way dialogue, to list priorities, confirm mutual goals.

1. Where are we going ?
2. Where are you going?
3. What are you doing well?
4. What changes can lead to improvement?
5. How can I help?
6. What suggestions do you have for me?

This format is the work of Marshall Goldsmith, PhD
Consultant and author of What Got You Here Won't Get You There

Important Questions:

- Are you listening (with ears wide open) to the voice of your staff members?
- And are you responding wholeheartedly to their concerns?
- Do you take the time, quarterly, to check in and make sure you're aligned with your direct reports and your co-workers?

Take the “Mother Test”

Team DO IT Recommendation

As a team, ask and answer “The Mother Test,” and take appropriate training and disciplinary action though corrective action coaching if it is not being met by all staffers.

Best Practice: The Mystery Patient

A “mystery patient” gives you the true clue to staff’s engagement with patients.

“If you want to sell what John Jones buys, see the world thru John Jones’ eyes”

– Dave Gorden, CSP

Allow an experienced “mystery patient” to give you a report on his experience in your hospital.

DO IT Recommendation

Consider the benefits of using a “mystery patient’s” insights and recommendations.

Best Practice: “Patient Reality Checks” Done Weekly

Team DO IT Recommendations

How not to make patient survey results very meaningful to staff:

- Post on bulletin board
- Email to staff
- Announce at a Town Hall Meeting

How to make an emotional connection:

- Invite staff to take turns reading patient verbatim comments out loud to each other, in the tone of voice intended, at a staff meeting or service huddle

Examples of The Voice of our Customers...

From actual survey responses (from August 2013) POSITIVE

Example 1: "I live in Louisiana and was in Georgia visiting my family when I was hospitalized. The staff at your hospital made a very frightening and stressful situation as pleasant as possible. I will always be grateful."

Example 2: "Dr. _____ is the best surgeon. He has an excellent bedside manner. Spends a lot of time with you before and after surgery."

Example 3: "Taking blood every four hours became very painful. Persons taking my blood were very understanding and made the procedure as comfortable as possible. IV nurse was excellent."

The HCAHPS Breakthrough Series  1.800.667.7335

Examples of The Voice of our Customers...

From actual survey responses (from August 2013) Negative

Example 1: "I had terrible pain and no one had any sense of urgency to try and make me feel better."

Example 2: "Way too much noise at night, and too much laughter from the nurses station."

Example 3: "Dr. _____ - Horrible bedside manner!! Hardly the time to tell a patient they should have quit smoking earlier. More stressful then helpful."

The HCAHPS Breakthrough Series  1.800.667.7335

If your patient satisfaction survey vendor uses the phone to collect comments...

- Play them back to your staff - engagement guaranteed.
- Nothing’s as powerful as hearing patients tell their hospital experience in person!

Team DO IT Recommendations

1. Invite a patient and family member who were vocal in giving negative feedback, to share their experience at a special staff meeting, or patient experience workshop.
 - A good source of patients are staff members, family, or friends who may have given them an earful
 - Encourage open dialogue, and questions after they have told their story.
 - Encourage staff to look for opportunities to improve processes
 - Be sure to appropriately thank your volunteers
2. Implement a system to “push” verbatim patient comments to weekly frontline staff meetings.
3. Schedule a patient “Reality Check Visit” at first opportunity.

Question

When and how will you bring patient (and internal customers’) perceptions to life for your team?

The Three Imperatives of a Culture Patients Will Recommend #2. Empower

Empower your people to go above and beyond.

Three ways to EMPOWER your people to go above and beyond:

Step 1: Over-Communicate

Step 2: Above All, Tell Stories!

Step 3: The DAISY Award

Best Practice: Over-Communicate

Question

What would your job be like if you had no say, and had no idea of what was going on?

“You cannot not communicate”

- Anonymous

Team DO IT Recommendations

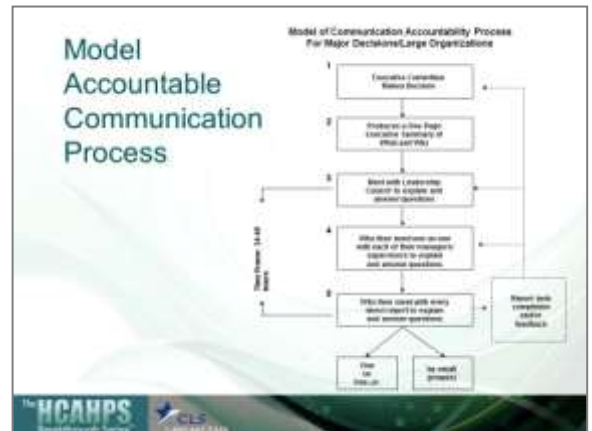

Leaders stay connected through:

- Weekly Executive Meetings
- Monthly Managers’ Meetings
- Informal lunch meetings by service lines, and by managerial “interest groups”
- Daily Stand-Up Huddles

The Accountability Trickle Down Teaching Theory

“Where we fall down... is our failure to follow up!”

- Brian Lee, CSP

Team DO IT Recommendations

Leaders stay connected with all staff through:

- Daily Staff Huddles
- Quarterly (mandatory) Town Hall Meetings
- Administrator Patient Welcome Visits
- Daily Leader Intentional Staff Rounding
- Leader LEAN Gemba Walks
- Blogs and newsletters
- E-mails
- Organization-wide social events
- Effective two-way staff meetings

1. Debrief and agree on a sustainable plan to “Over-Communicate” to staff and patients.
2. Conduct a staff focus group(s) with an external facilitator, to identify opportunities to improve communication.

Best Practice:

Create a Story-Telling Culture

- The best hospitals communicate cultural values through the telling of stories
- They share their successes, their mishaps – and lessons learned from both

Such stories remind us of the greatness of the people we work with every day, and the importance of our calling.

Great Leaders Look for Stories

- that illustrate the lack of boundaries between departments excellent in serving patients, thus modeling teamwork for the entire organization
- that change the way co-workers see themselves and their patients, thus influencing future behaviors

Team DO IT Recommendations

Open every meeting with a current inspiring story from a team member.

Best Practice:The DAISY Award

The DAISY Award was created to say thank you to nurses.

- It's a recognition program that's been called inspirational, a great morale booster, an excellent tool for nurse retention, as well as a way to develop role models
- Nationwide in scope, the DAISY Foundation provides support and training in running the award at your hospital
- For more information: www.daisyfoundation.org

Team DO IT Recommendations

Assign a “Daisy Champion” to phase in this award with all possible speed (if you do not already have this program up and running).

The Three Imperatives of a Culture Patients Will Recommend #3. Transform

Transform your team into real life Ambassadors.

Team DO IT Recommendations

Step 1: Transform Your Team into Real Life Ambassadors

Step 2: Lead the Paradigm Shift

Step 3: The Boomers are Coming!

Step 4: Ideas Worth Quoting and Reading

Step 5: Take the CHPP Challenge

Best Practice: Transform Your Team – The “Community First” Council

Have you even wondered why, despite high scores in other HCAHPS domains, ratings for “Willingness to Recommend” lag behind...?

We refer to it as “community memory.”

“Community Memory” Defined

- It's the tendency to remember instances of poor service that happened years ago at your hospital
- Even if a patient's experience with you has been excellent, that patient may remember a less successful stay by a relative or friend, an event that goes back as long ago as a decade
- This influences his opinion of even the superior care he received with you last week: if your hospital was judged harshly years ago, that memory, that story, is likely to cloud today's perception
- What do you do?

“People don't change their minds, but they do make new decisions, based on new information.”

– Zig Ziglar

Galvanize your hospital with outreach into the community you serve. Appoint a “Community First” Council.

Mission

To communicate the value of your hospital’s excellent patient care to your community and re-educate the community to see your hospital as a resource for education and support about healthy lifestyles and well-being – not just as a place to go when sick.

“Community First” – Recruits Best Leaders from Inside Your Hospital

- Positive, enthusiastic management, physicians, nurses, and support staff
- Your Community Relations leader
- Business development department
- Active, key volunteers
- Loyal, appreciative patients
- Patient Advisory Council members
- Board members from both your hospital and Foundation

“Community First” – How’s the Health of Your Community?

- Conduct a Community Health Assessment
- Learn from Patient Focus Group(s), or your Patient Advisory Council
- Conduct Staff Focus Groups
- Harvest info from post-discharge calls
- What health support is your community most hungry for?
- How soon can you meet those needs?

Brainstorm Your Mission and Your Message

- Create a three-year plan to energize a change in local health and lifestyles
- Goal: to transform public health, and build public pride in your hospital
- Be honest about your past reputation, even as you shift focus to your “new” levels of healthy living, clinical expertise, and care

Check / Re-Write Your “Brand Promise” as a Health Resource, Shown in Your:

- | | |
|--|--|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Mission Statement ▪ Vision Statement ▪ Values ▪ Tag Lines ▪ Service Standards ▪ Care Promises | UPDATE YOUR <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Website ▪ Brochures ▪ All marketing materials (to reflect Brand Promise) |
|--|--|

Do Your Homework:

- Conduct an internal survey of employees
- Ask: what’s their willingness to recommend the hospital?
- Learn what still needs changing to gain their alignment
- Work to make those changes happen
- Goal: a unified, intentional culture

Community Outreach Goals

- Educate about healthy lifestyles
- Provide instruction about diet and exercise
- Create excitement re: new clinical services
- Introduce new physicians and personnel
- Trumpet new physical improvements

“Community First” Involves Good Word-of-Mouth

You already have credible community citizens whom you can energize as “carriers of good news” about your hospital.

They include the most respected people in your community...

- Police officers and firefighters
- All first responder emergency personnel
- Chaplains/spiritual care counselors
- City Council and School Board members

Make sure they know of your public outreach. Recruit them to help spread the word...

Train Team Members as Ambassadors

- Teach them how to discuss the difference between the “old” facility – and what is “new and remarkably different” today
- Lead associates to express pride in the hospital’s mission, vision, and values
 - at family gatherings
 - at the Little League ballpark
 - the beauty salon
 - across the back fence with neighbors
- Your associates are the best Ambassadors

No Hidden Hospital I.D. Badges

- Train your team via role-plays for situations where negative feedback is likely
- Make staff and Volunteers comfortable with what to say and do
- Train staff to anticipate and forestall negative conversations from patients, and above all, to perform service recovery

Make Your Hospital a Wellness Center

- Make meeting rooms available for health-oriented causes:
 - “12 Step” groups, weight-loss, diabetes, care-giver support, meditation training, yoga, diet and nutrition education
- Activate your MD’s and RN’s as speakers at public health forums, held in-house
- Open your Fitness Center/Rehab facility to the community

How Many Ways Can You Influence Your City's Health?

- Annual Health Fair
- Cancer Walks and 5k/10k fundraisers
- Annual Hospital Open House
- Hospital “Boosters/Champions” on Chamber of Commerce, United Way, Economic Development, and tourism organizations
- Talks at service clubs, churches, etc.

Create Positive Buzz Everywhere

- Health booth at all high-school athletic events
- Educate hair stylists, barbers about your hospital
- Publish an Annual Community Report, circulated to every household as special promotion with local newspaper
- Establish a Community Health Hotline, with priority response to current concerns

Create a Robust Social Media Presence

- Facebook: build “interest groups” based on affinities: Alzheimer’s support, Parkinson’s, etc.
- YouTube: videos teaching activities that seniors can do at home to promote better quality of life
- Twitter: used for immediate communication between patient and hospital after discharge
- Hospital web-portal for ongoing patient engagement

Launch a Speaker’s Bureau

- Enlist your empowered frontline leaders (Service Excellence Advisors)
- Organize a Train-the-Trainer course for volunteers to carry your message
- Hold a class for all “Community First” members to learn about your ‘new and improved’ message, and how to share it

Visibility in the Community Counts

Don't forget: your internal departments are your public face.

Your Internal Departments Contribute Importantly to “Recommend” Scores

- Serve co-workers as you would patients and guests
- Treat all colleagues as professionals – with courtesy, honesty, and respect
- Encourage team members’ work, and praise them whenever possible
- Make new staff members feel welcome!

All “Behind the Scenes” Departments Impact Patient Perceptions of the Hospital’s Good Will

Examples:

- Purchasing (your business relationship with local suppliers)
- Engineering and Maintenance (a smooth-running plant as seen by public)
- Security (skill at handling difficult situations)
- IT (making their technology available to local non-profits)
- Physicians (free physicals for youth athletics)
- Medical Records (smooth system, no waste time in preparing patient records for easy pick-up)
- Finance Office (sharpen your hospital’s complaint handling re: billing, costs of services, and payment plans. Teach skills for discussing money matters with patients.)

There are those who serve the patient, and there are those who serve those who serve the patient.”
– Anonymous

Team DO IT Recommendation

Charter a “Community First” Council

The Council has one function: “to better the health of the community.”

- Creates awareness via all available media
- Gives awards and recognition for lifestyle improvements of every kind
- Be enthusiastic advocates for celebration of all national healthcare awareness days
- Uses the good offices of its membership to lead the community to new understanding of smarter lifestyles
- And “Walks the Talk!”

Make it a Powerhouse Group

- Stack your Council with energetic membership
- Choose high-profile citizens, committed to public health
- Make the Council a coveted appointment
- Design a prestigious induction ceremony. Your CEO leads swearing-in ceremony. Local newspaper coverage with pictures is a must
- Council meets bi-weekly at hospital. Visible!
- Lunch monthly at the hospital cafeteria. Be seen!
- Is the motor force behind “Community First” Council unafraid to create public excitement about hospital?

Team DO IT Recommendation

Appoint a six-person steering team to develop a draft “Community First” Charter and first year Plan of Action. Hold a founding meeting as soon as your Executive Team approves the recommendations.

Question

Who would like to take on the challenge of launching your “Community First” Council?

Best Practice:

Lead the Paradigm Shift

Moore’s Law

- Every 18 months, technology will double capacity AND reduce costs
- 1974 – 1 megabyte of dynamic-access memory cost $34,820
- 2011 – 1 cent!
- Can now put 10 million transistors in a space the size of a period!

Question

When did we ever get the idea that improving the patient experience was a separate and additional job?

Lead Staff to Shift Their Thinking

Continuously improving the patient experience IS our job!

Question

Are you ready to lead this paradigm shift?
(It's the royal road to higher "Recommend" scores!)

Best Practice: The Boomers Are Coming

Fastest-Growing Population Segment!

- Leaders must consistently role-model how to manage new expectations from senior patients

Because their expectations have changed in the last ten years:

- Baby-Boomers believe they have a right to good health
- Are more empowered because of the internet
- Expect to be active participants in their own healing and well-being
- Expect to exert a modicum of control in own care
- Expect comfort, convenience, and care
- Want to avoid looking/feeling older and will expect healthcare to provide the solutions
- They expect to hold health care professionals accountable for quality of care
- They expect HCP's to suggest what is best for them
- But they expect to make informed decisions themselves
- They expect to take responsibility for their own health

Questions

- Is your staff aware of, and sensitive to, the expectations of the Boomers?
- Are they the fastest-growing population group at your hospital?
- What are you doing to get ready for their arrival?

Team DO IT Recommendation

Schedule a "lunch and learn" for your leaders to learn more about serving the Boomers.

Best Practice: Ideas Worth Quoting and Reading

“One good quote is worth a 1,000 pictures.”

- BL & DD

A quote can:

Inspire, affirm, cause an “aha,” be a wake-up call, educate, and provide insight.

Good Reading for Managers

Here are a few examples of the great books we have recommended:

- Radical Loving Care – Erie Chapman
- I Quit But Forgot to Tell You – Terri Kabachnick
- Nobody’s Home – Dr. Atul Gawande
- Outliers – Malcolm Gladwell
- Who’s Your Gladys? – Marilyn Suttle and Lori Jo Vest

DO IT Recommendations

Request a copy, via today’s evaluation form, of “Ideas Worth Quoting and Reading” and circulate it amongst your colleagues to post and use to reinforce the HBS webinar series

Best Practice: Take the CHPP Challenge

Make Plans to Earn Your CHPP Designation

Become a “Certified HCAHPS Practicing Professional” by taking the (optional) final test at the completion of this series.

C.H.P.P. Benefits

- Sense of personal accomplishment
- Creating a critical mass of expertise to improve the patient experience
- Completing the test is a valuable learning experience
- Will inspire others by example
- Invaluable addition to your resume

DO IT Recommendation

Schedule a date and time to complete the CHPP test by clicking

www.customlearning.com/hbs

Team DO IT Plan

- 1 Calculate your “drive-by factor.” Set a goal to win back a specific percentage of market share each year, through good community word of mouth
- 2 Practice sentence-starters that politely encourage patients to refer our hospital to family and friends
- 3 Use role-playing to practice narrowing the gap between our patients’ expectations and their actual experience
- 4 As individuals, ask and answer “The Mother Test.” It’s a powerful way to call attention to the need for compassionate care at the bedside
- 5 When meeting informally, ask staff: “Would you recommend our hospital to your family and friends?”
 - Respond to what you hear. It’s your cue that either the hospital’s clinical skills or care-giving attitudes need serious attention
- 6 Implement a system to “push” verbatim patient comments to weekly frontline staff meetings
- 7 Consider the benefits of using a “Mystery Patient’s” insights and recommendations
